THE TRACKS TO HONKY-TONK

To the Editor:

Congratulations on the Bethel Planning Board's decision to make the Newry/Sunday River station. Contracts do not seem to mean much these days. When they knowingly violate their contract, it seems to me they are banking on the fact they won't be made to correct it, because they have spent so much money. Seabrook, N.H. was a classic example.

As to the Cross Street project, I was for it at first—but now I'm not. It will change Bethel forever—and I've seen little about the fact of rail service to Boston. Has the railroad been approached? I think this was the first thing people thought of—"How nice that would be." Would they run trains here—and for how long? I'm afraid it will make Bethel a honky-tonk town, with half empty stores, etc. Bethel is quiet and charming and that is what people expect. It seems to me it's all being done for Sunday River—and that's big enough now.

SHOP NEAR HOME

To the Editor:

Now that the Christmas season is upon us, we are bombarded with pleas for contributions to help those less fortunate. 'Tis the season for giving. I would like to ask you to consider another form of "giving." The Bethel area merchants, as to all other retailers, depend on a healthy Christmas trade. Certainly there are bargains to be had at the large chain stores and the malls; however, the Bethel area merchants need your support also. Without your support, how can they continue to keep their doors open during that hot spell in August when a trip to the mall is out of the question, no matter what the savings might be, or that cold, snowy night when a quick stop on the way to a cozy home is all that strength or driving conditions will allow.

Please, on the way to the mall to drop off your "Coats for Kids" and from for a sale, consider buying some of your gifts locally, even though you might spend a little more money.

If the Bethel area merchants are to continue to expand their goods and services and offer competitive prices they need your support not only during this holiday season but throughout the year. Charity begins at home.

GOOD SAMARITANS IN ANDOVER

To the Editor:

Good Samaritans are a rare find these days but I can tell you for certain that there are a couple living in the town of Andover. Scott Farington and his wife, Tina.

While returning my daughter's friend home to Andover Saturday night, Dec. 4, I lost control of my car on snow-covered Route 5 and went down over an embankment. As luck would have it, the car remained upright and came to a stop without much impact or injury to my daughter or her two friends.

Scott and his family came along just after the accident and offered to take the four of us to a phone. Tina was kind enough to call the Rumford Police Department, then Scott returned us to the site of the accident to wait for help to arrive. While there he looked for damage to the car, later turning home for a chain saw and a plank. When the wrecker arrived, Scott had cut down several small trees pinned against the car and had positioned the plank so they would be able to get the car up over the culvert. This enabled the tow truck to haul my vehicle out without damage. Amazingly, I was able to drive it home that same evening.

I just wanted to publicly say Thank You to Scott and Tina for all that they did for me, the girls and our car. They truly were a help and comfort to four shaken travelers. The town of Andover is fortunate to have such caring people in their community.

CHRISTMAS IN BETHEL

To the Editor:

On the weekend of Dec. 4, many people came together for the Christmas in Bethel Celebration. This was the start of an annual event. The weekend was fun and a lot of businesses were well decorated. The "Taste of Bethel" was supported by nearly every food establishment in the area. There were over 200 people who had a chance to taste what the area has to offer. Although there were many more people involved, I'd like to commend Tom McGinniss and Rhea Gibbs for their coordination of the project. This was an event that many people had talked about doing for years. A great job was done by all the volunteers.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES

To the Editor:

It is always a pleasure to thank people for their generosity and hard work. In this case my heart goes along with my thanks. In times that are so easy on anyone, many people came to the Benefit Bingo sponsored by Jackson Silver Post #68 for the benefit of Christmas For Families. Everyone pitched in to make it a rousing success. The Legion members put in lots of time and effort from cleaning, putting together the bingo packages, to selling tickets, to calling, to well, the list goes on and on. Thank you. To the young men of the Sons of American Legion who also put in their time and energies; thank you. To the hardworking, good cooking, smiling services of the Auxiliary; thank you. To all the people who came and donated money that will provide 50 families with a much happier Christmas. Thank you. Words are not enough.

Director, Christmas For Families

FIRE OFFICIALS MEET—The Northern Oxford Mutual Aid Association of Firefighters met last week at the Newry/Sunday River fire station. Fire chiefs and their officers get together every other month or so to discuss training activities and other ways to help the different departments work together. The group has also met following large fires, when two or three departments were called out. The chiefs discuss what worked at the scene and how to improve future joint fire fighting efforts. Gathered in Newry last week were (from left): Lonnie Davis, Bethel F.D.; Randy Brooke, Newry F.D.; Ken Cole, Gilead Fire Chief; Mike Jodrey, Bethel F.D.; David Brown, Bethel F.D.; Jim Young, Bethel Fire Chief; Bill Seames, Woodstock Fire Chief; Ken Dixon, Andover Fire Chief; Virgil "Tink" Conkright, Newry Fire Chief, and Bob Hutchins, Andover F.D.

enough, and now we've got to have some resolution of the matter," Parker said. "I've exercised all the options I have in the case. It's time to get the attorney general involved and put some oomph in the case. We're moving toward taking court-ordered action."

Action taken at facilities like the Gordons has included closing them down, levying fines or seizing property and assets, Parker said.

Selectman Bartlett said she was happy to hear the state was considering taking some sort of court-ordered action.

"It's about time," Bartlett said. "They should have come into compliance years ago. At least they should stop the tires coming in, because they've just been stockpiling out there, and it's been going on for six years."

In late July, the DEP issued a consent agreement to the Gordons and gave them 14 days to sign it. Parker said the agreement would have required the couple to bring the Rabbit Road tire dump in compliance with state law or face possible prosecution. The proposed consent agreement went unsigned.

Susan Gordon said Monday that Parker has not returned her recent telephone calls, and she does not know what the state plans to do.

Since 1987, the Gordons have accumulated close to a million tires at the site, according to DEP estimates.

"It will just be my wife and myself getting started," Stuer said. "We'll see anyone who wants to see us and do house calls whenever necessary."

"We want to offer good service and good medicine at a reasonable price. We'll have a low overhead. The (office) space is small, but adequate. I don't want to build a hospital like the one I'm working at now."

Stuer plans to be open six days a week and two evenings. He'll also carry an emergency beeper, he said.

"We're going to be as available as we can," he said. "I really care about (pet owners') animals. They're important to me. That's why I became a veterinarian."

The couple, who met while cleaning stalls at the University of N.H. cow barn, said they will probably hold an open house in February to introduce themselves to the community.

The Stuers said they also appreciate the help and encouragement the Hudsons have given them over the past few months.

"They've opened up their arms and their house to us," Stuer said. "They've been invaluable. We feel like part of the family."

Jim and Pat Hudson are retiring to Newcastle. They have had a family camp there for more than 30 years and have turned it into a year-round home.

"Bethel has been awfully good to us," Hudson said. "We've got a lot of friends here and we're going to come back and ski. We're not leaving for good. I also want to ride that damn train."

Hudson has been doctoring animals for more than 35 years, he said, and "it's time for a break. I won't miss answering the phone every five minutes."

Hudson's assistant Debbie Wheeler is also ready for some time off. Wheeler said she decided months ago that when the practice sold she'd give up her permanent part-time job there, and look for other work. "It's time for a change," she said.

Sarah Richardson, guard Bethel Howe and forward Sarah Seames.

"It's going to take us a while to come together," coach Seames said. "We had 26 girls turn out. We're mixing last year's varsity and J.V. players and the freshmen together with a new coach."

One of the team's biggest weaknesses this season will be height.

"We're a small team," Seames said. "We've got to be a lot faster team than we've been in the past. We need to do all the things a small team needs to do to win—steal the ball, force turnovers."

Seames said the team looks good defensively but needs to work at scoring more points. The Rebel's highest-scoring game last year was 34 points.

This year's team goals are to score more points than last year, the coach said, and "give 110 percent on and off the court." And Seames said he's already seen the girls giving the game extra effort.

"They're all working real hard and even asking for extra practice time and extra running during practice," Seames said.

In their opening season loss, the rebels were simply out-talented, Seames said. Madison had three players six feet tall or over and just plain played over the heads of his players.

The girls were scheduled to play Carrebec last night (Tuesday) and meet Jay at home Friday. J.V. play begins at 5:30 p.m. followed by the varsity at 7 p.m.

School Board OKs back-up buses for skiers

By WENDY HANSCOM

Sunday River Transportation Co. will have four SAD44 buses at its disposal this winter to backup its own fleet of seven buses.

The buses will carry riders of the new Portland-Bethel ski train to the resort.

The SAD44 School Board put several conditions on the use of the district's buses, and Sunday River was asked to pay for all expenses involved. Those costs include: licensing the buses to carry non-students, any equipment modifications or damages, insurance, $15 per round trip and indemnifying the school from liability.

Brown bothering board

Monday evening Bethel Director Merton Brown was also chastised for bothering the board with reports of what he considers district over-spending.

This is the second time recently that Finance Committee Chairman Brown has pointed out what he called wasteful district spending.

A few months ago, Brown told the board that the district had paid too much, $2,000, for blinds for the Telstar library. He said then that he planned to continue pointing out any expenditures he felt were excessive.

Monday, Brown told the board that the district had paid $180 for a copymachine-attached electric stapler, which he also considered too much.

The board asked a few questions about the stapler purchase, which Superintendent Ronald Jenkins said he had approved.

But Board Chairman Margaret Hand said she felt it was the financial committee's obligation to deal with these types of matters.

"I'm not sure it's very productive as a full board to spend as much as 20 minutes on something that could be handled better on committee level," Hand said.

Andover Director Brad Thibodeau agreed.

"If you think there's an organizational problem, then do the homework and see if it's an ongoing problem," Thibodeau told

Brown, "otherwise I don't want to hear about it."

Director T.L. McGee of Woodstock said he agreed with Thibodeau. No other board members spoke out against or in support of Brown.

"I'm going to keep on doing it," Brown said Tuesday.

In other business, the board presented Natalie Timberlake with a plaque commemorating her service to the district.

Timberlake recently retired from coordinating the district's Chapter I and Reading Recovery programs. Special Education Director Ann Holt will take over Timberlake's duties until the end of FY '94. She will receive a $1,500 stipend.

The board also voted to extend Supt. Jenkins' contract from June 1994 through June 1995. This spring, Jenkins was signed to a two-year contract, which began in July.

Jenkins was also appointed education agent for Gilead and Upton.

Greenwood Director Ray Harrington and Newry Director Debbie Gilbert were absent Monday night.

WESTWARD EXPANSION PONDERED
Sunday River Ski Resort is exploring the development possibilities for a 15,000-acre parcel of International Paper Company land to the west of the current ski area (see story, page 1). One option for the parcel would be a 200- to 250-acre man-made lake at the head of the Sunday River (upper left on map). By way of comparison, a 250-acre lake would be a little smaller than Lake Christopher (278 acres) or South and Round ponds (284 acres combined). The skiway has already received regulatory approvals for further development in the area of Riley Township just over the Newry town line.

NEWRY VOTERS APPROVE SPENDING, NEW REGS

A dozen Newry voters at Monday's special Town Meeting covered overdrafts in two town accounts, and approved new road and shoreland zoning ordinances.

Townpeople approved spending an additional $5,000 to cover a predicted shortage in the town's administrative salaries account.

Selectman Steve Wight said processing tax bills for the new Summit Hotel at Sunday River has tacked man-hours onto the town's payroll. "It will come back to us eventually with more taxes coming in," Wight said.

Voters also OK'd spending another $1,200 for repairs and renovations at the town-owned Bear River Grange Hall.

Wight said the account is $755 in the hole now, and heat and electrical bills until the end of this year should bring the overdraft total close to $1,200.

The town's road ordinance was also tightened up Monday night. Voters approved a variety of changes recommended by ordinance review committee members Joseph Aloisio of the Planning Board, Road Commissioner Virgil "Tink" Conkright and Selectman James Sysko.

The changes were recommended to make new roads constructed in town safer, Sysko said. Roads already in existence are grandfathered, he said.

Residents also voted to require an engineer's approval on the construction of all new bridges or crossings on rivers and major streams which are named in the town's Unified Development Ordinance.

State legislative changes to shoreland zoning were also approved. The new regulations will make it easier for single-family dwellings only to be built on property within a flood zone, according to Planning Board Chairman Don Sandstrom.

Voters also accepted Deer Run Road in the Mountain View subdivision as a town road.

Les Otten was elected to moderate the meeting.

Bethel Police log on page nine this week.

Mt. Abram aiming for Friday opening

After their original opening-day target was doused by last Saturday's heavy rains, Mt. Abram's new owners are now hoping to have the Locke Mills ski area open for business by Friday.

Spokesman Eric Austin said two or three trails are planned to be open, with the main lift and T-bar in operation. "We're losing ground right now," Austin said Tuesday, as the rainy spell continued, "but we hope to be able to start making snow again soon."

Early season prices will be in effect, Austin said: $20 for adults on weekends and $14 during the week (children's prices are lower).

A dozen people are now employed at Mt. Abram, Austin said, with another 100 or (including ski school instructors and ski patrollers) eagerly waiting for their winter work to begin.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Our sympathy this week is with the family of Dede Morse who passed away last week.

Mrs. Vicky MacDonald and son Chuck of Fort Mill, S.C., spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones in Norway and her sister, Wanda Ryerson and brother-in-law Joe and little nephew Zachary in Oxford. Vicky used to live here in East Stoneham.

Earl Littlefield is in the St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston where he had a knee operation and is doing quite nicely.

On Sunday afternoon Gladys Kilgore called me and said she had a nice surprise. A group of Sunday School children, their teachers, and Rev. Janice and Everett Wilcox came in and sang lovely Christmas carols to her. I believe they went to several more homes in the area. This is a nice practice to do for people who are at home and alone on a Sunday afternoon.

Eight members of Hannah F. Richardson Tent No. 19 D.U.V. and Dept. President Gail Butterfield met Wednesday night, December 1, at the Chief's Table for their annual Christmas supper party and meeting, with Mary G. Jones presiding. Nomination of officers was held at this time. Gifts were brought in for Pineland and Togus hospitals. There was also an exchange of gifts among the members. A motion was made and seconded to donate some money to the Church Steeple Fund in memory of Helen Grover, who was a most faithful member of the Daughters and the Church.

Leslie Dean mentioned that she (with the D.U.V.s) have made some sweet breads to be donated to the Christmas community baskets. Five pairs of mittens have been made for the Stoneham Community Tree.

We received the new password for 1994. The dues will be going up, but if there is a hardship let the treasurer or president know and something will be worked out.

Frances and Leslie are on the committee for the January meeting and it will be "Taster Choice" after the meeting, which should be interesting and hopefully a bit profitable. This will be held January 16 at the Church vestry.

Last Friday morning the roads were very slippery from the rain freezing on, and there were several accidents up on the Albany road. Lyndon Grover (I almost said Johnson) was hurt when his truck slid and struck a tree. He was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. At this writing he is at home and doing OK.

That bit above reminded me of a Grange meeting once when the secretary was calling the roll and instead of Nathan Smith she said Nathan Hale. I thought we girls would split trying not to giggle, which wasn't very nice of us. That was a long time ago when we were young and silly.

Leo Hemingway of Oxford and Gordon and Lolalee Dillingham were Thanksgiving Day dinner guests of their children, Craig and Brydie Moore, Tyler and baby Allyson.

Jamie Hutchinson, Teal Spear and daughter Julia were supper guests of Craig and Brydie Moore recently. Claribel Poland had a cataract removed from one of her eyes last week. Her appointment was at 1 p.m. and she was on her way home at 3 p.m. the same day. She says she's amazed at the improvement in her ability to see.

Andrea and Karon Wing did some Christmas shopping in Lewiston on Monday. Andrea goes to Lewiston for PUVA treatments for psoriasis three times a week and Karon went along with her so they both could do some shopping afterwards. While they were at Wal-Mart they ran into Esther Davis and Vera Buck who had decided to see if they could find any bargains. Esther does real well to go so far; she's 81 years young.

The signs of Christmas are showing up everywhere. One of the prettiest I've seen so far is Lloyd and Gina Poland's house on Route 26. The lights inside and out are very eye-catching.

A small snowstorm hit our area this week. How things have changed since I was a child. When the snow fell we would slide down what is known as "The Guideboard Hill." This is on the main road that goes through South Woodstock-Perkins Valley area. We were told if we went to the top of the hill and there were no cars in sight it was OK to slide on our sleds down the hill. No one would dare do that now. The traffic is a lot heavier and the cars are much faster. But I remember what a thrill it was; the school I attended was near the bottom of the hill and we had our sleds to use during recess. Of course no salt or sand was used so the snow stayed quite a while and in mid-winter the roads were almost always covered with snow all the time. Snowplows sometimes took days to get to plow the "valley." So we went to school this way quite often. With so many people now going to work in towns quite far away, the roads are sanded and bared almost before it snows. They do a good job.

I read in the paper this week that Albert Hathaway had died. I did not know him, but it brought to mind how his wife Agnes, a school teacher at Woodstock Elementary School in the 1950s, was my transportation to Woodstock High School. She picked me up along with two or three other students at Andrews' corner. School buses for high school students didn't come this far for a couple of years after that. She let us off at the corner at the end of the school day. The corner is nearly two miles from where I lived. Just a bit of reminiscing on my part.

Joe Pete and Laurene and Danny Appleby called on Richard and Andrea Wing one night last week. They were upset because someone had left two small kittens at the Union Church; they had been there for several days. They called to see what could be done, as it was a very cold night. Please don't leave animals to fend for themselves, it is a very cruel thing to do. I couldn't help but wonder what would happen to them; it was very disturbing.

Larry Billings, curator at Woodstock Historical Society wants to remind everyone that the society tells the tale of our area and recalls other times and ways for us to experience. The society reveals secrets about our background.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

Hear the Christmas carols pealing throughout the countryside and reports of religious tableaux and pilgrimages! Springing up all over this little community are the beautiful lights and decorations commemorating this most special time of year. The Savior's birth. So many of our neighbors have put special effort in their Christmas lightings. Not to be forgotten is the Evans Notch Motel—the only remaining business in town. Forest Young, its owner, has gone to Kittery to spend the winter, leaving a young couple, Peter Lawton and Nancy Forest, as the most capable host and hostess. They wish to cordially invite all those of us within the area to drop by and say hello as they will be more or less confined to the premises. We hope these two young people enjoy their winter stay with us and that it will be an enjoyable one.

We have had a few snow showers and a lot of cloudy and dull days, but each time the snow has melted and the emerald green of the grass shows. The old "Farmer's Almanac" states that a green Christmas most usually is followed by a snowy Easter.

Audrey Franklyn has arrived at her destination in Missouri, where she will spend her time with her son Wayne and family. The cats' flight out was not appreciated by them, but they are adapting themselves to their new home.

Josie Greenwood has left us for the sunny climes of San Diego, to spend the winter with a brother who is ill. Another brother, Roland of Berlin, N.H., is looking after her birds—both inside and out—during her absence.

Gilead firefighters were called out last week to a tragic accident in Evans Notch where a 17-year-old girl from Chatham, N.H., lost her life in a car accident. This community extends its sincerest sympathy to her parents and friends in Chatham.

To all of you who looked for my news last week—it was sent in too late, I presume, as it was not printed.

Don't forget to call me with your news at 836-3673, as this is written for the Gilead people. Thanks a lot, and enjoy the season. It is a time of rejoicing.

Perhaps it would interest a lot of you to know that Stella Tyler fell and broke her hip a while ago. She is staying with her daughter Patty in Dover, N.H., and would enjoy receiving mail from you. Her address is: 37 Tofree Lane, Dover, NH 03780.

By the way, we miss you Stella. Enjoy your Holiday.

No. Woodstock

By SHANE BILLINGS

Today started off cold and uninviting, but as I walked up the road after school it was warm and calm. Christmas is coming, and in North Woodstock there are many lights and decorations. This area always looks so nice in December, quite different than it does at any other time of year. It is always beautiful here, but the beauty of Christmas is somehow more special.

On Friday, December 3, Bridget Billings, Sue Silver, and Joelle and Errol Silver attended the Christmas tree lighting at the Bryant Pond town common.

On Saturday, Louise Chapman and Jason Billings went shopping at the Auburn Mall. Emma Billings and Louise Chapman went Christmas shopping in Rumford on Sunday.

On Saturday, Tony and Sue Silver and children Joelle and Errol went to the show "Sesame Street Live" at the Cumberland County Civic Center. They all enjoyed it, and Sue said that even little Errol was excited to see the Sesame Street characters.

Rob and Norma Davis visited Emma and Lee Billings at their home this weekend. Even though they are neighbors, busy schedules keep them from seeing each other as often as they'd like.

Alison Chapman will return to North Woodstock for the holiday on Thursday. She is living in Washington and this will be the first time the family has seen her in a year. After she arrives home Alison and her parents, Louise and Alan, will make a brief trip to Fort Jackson to attend the graduation of Sarah Chapman from basic training.

As the night falls outside my window, I have to bring this column to a close. I have a lot of homework tonight, and I also have to prepare for a test in my math class tomorrow. I hope I do well. Next weekend I will be going Christmas shopping. This year, due to my job, I have enough money to buy gifts for all of my friends as well as my family. I hope everyone starts getting into the spirit of the season as we have here in Pinhook. I'll be back next week with more news and best wishes for a happy holiday.

search of some crafts and food fairs. We found one in Rumford Point, took chances on a quilt and bought a few things. Then we came to Bethel and took in the Congregational Church crafts and food sale, bought a few more things and enjoyed some coffee and sweets. Also met a few friends that were busy there; like Helen Morton, Sis Post, Peggy Wight and Steve, Olive Anderson and son Jim, and many more. It was a great day and was worth the "trip."

The Newry Firemen Ladies Auxiliary met Thursday, the 9th, at the Town Building for a short business report followed by a shower for Michelle, daughter of Fire Chief Virgil and Pam Conkright. She received many gifts, and there was a delicious snack to eat and a lot of good-natured chatter. "That's what I like about a small town—we have a lot of fun."

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Sylvia Wight, Eleanor Davis, Bea Lowell and Doris Parent, all of the Newry Bowling Gang, were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, last week. Of the "Lefties," Betsy was high on the triples but tied with Karlene on the singles. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on the triples and Eleanor was high on the singles. Betsy had one strike and five spares, Karlene had one spare and one strike, Bea had two spares, Sylvia had three spares and Eleanor had one spare.

Happy Birthday to Nancy Wight and Sylvia Gray. What's your secret for staying so young? Warmest wishes for a very happy day and many happy returns of the day.

West Paris

By RUSSELL YATES

Howdy folks. This has been rather a nice Monday and I've done other things, so I guess I'll tackle typing the news this evening.

Last Monday, Peggy was at Laverdiere's doing her card work as usual. I didn't amount to too much, but did work outside in the afternoon, doing more to get the old snowblower ready to go. I discovered that one wheel was about to fall off, so I found a bolt to fasten it to the axle.

Tuesday, we spent much of the day in Auburn. We went in the forenoon and started by shopping at Marden's. Of course, we found some things that we felt we needed, but it we hadn't seen them, we'd have gotten along just fine without them. After shopping at Marden's, we had a lunch at Arby's and then on to Wal-Mart, where we found more goodies that we just couldn't get along without. We visited Vera at the Odd Fellows Home and found her doing quite well. We visited with her until nearly 3 p.m. when she had to go for rehearsal to be in some kind of a Christmas play that will take place on December 9, I believe. We left for home but stopped into the new home of Candle Place down below Norway on Route 26. They have a beautiful new home and set-up.

Peggy went down street this forenoon with her daughter Loretta and baby—her great-granddaughter, Kayla Marie, while Loretta was at the hospital to fulfill an appointment that she had there.

Bryce and Barbara Yates came down to visit us on Thursday. This was the first time we had seen them since they returned home from a hunting expedition in Colorado. They hunted on a private ranch out there. Each one shot an elk and Bryce also shot a buck deer, so they had lots of meat to bring back to Maine. While they were in town they visited Lawrence and Grace Yates.

That evening Peggy and I attended West Paris Grange. It was a regular meeting and the attendance was small, but we had a real good time.

There will be a Christmas program at West Paris Grange on December 16 and at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond on December 20. All Grangers are to bring gifts to exchange with someone of the same sex.

There will be a dance at West Summer Grange Hall on December 18, with the Richard Felt Orchestra furnishing the music. You're sure to have a good time.

Mary Lovejoy and two small boys that she cares for were in Portland on Tuesday.

Sunday, the Lovejoys picked up Helena Bartlett at the Bethel House and all went to New Hampshire to do some shopping.

Harrison Small from Kennebunkport had supper with the Lovejoy family on Saturday.

The Lovejoys wish that those people with cats that they no longer want would take them to some animal shelter for disposal instead of just dumping them out on High Street. It is being cruel to the animal and most all places already have all the cats that they wish to feed and care for.

Nordic ballet keeps skiers fast and light on their feet

Local athletes learn to 'plier' with their Olympic ski coach and Bethel's master dance teacher

By KIRK SIEGEL

Donned in lycra tights, standing tall with toes pointed out, and each with one hand held high, they might pass for college freshmen in a co-ed dance class. With varying degrees of grace, and clearly not quite synchronized, they concentrate intently on the steps and arm movements of basic ballet steps, called out in French by the instructor and accompanied by piano recordings. But closer inspection of the class reveals that the lycra they wear is that of ski suits. In fact, they are skiers on the Gould Academy cross-country ski team, being led in the art of ballet by Bethel's master dance teacher Sue Farrar.

Farrar and Gould ski coach and language instructor Dick Taylor have joined forces to instill a feeling for bodily movement, flexibility, and control through a weekly class with ten endurance athletes. Taylor, a former Olympian and National Team coach, is highly enthused by the benefits his skiers derive from ballet. In fact, the "tendu" movement in ballet—a smooth, full extension of the leg so embodies the skating motion in skiing, that the Goulds on snow—six weeks into ballet training—they are skiing with poise that seems to be in some part attributable to the work at the bar.

"It not only gives us presence over the snow, it makes for easier, more efficient speed," Taylor said. The skiers confirm the impact of the Monday sessions. "I feel looser and snappier the days after ballet," said senior Fred Burk. Teammate Chris Shaner agreed: "The effect is definitely positive." Two types of ballet training have been used, ballet barre and "across the floor" work. With its emphasis on strength and flexibility, ballet barre, (in which students hold a bar with one hand) has been a focus. Coach Taylor especially likes the "ronde de jambe," in which one leg is bent in a fondu, (one could say it is "melted") and the other leg moves fully extended in a circle, like a second hand on a clock, to the time of the piano accompaniment. A special part of the training has been following the expert example of Telstar junior cross-country skier Amy Howe and senior basketball player Cherilynne Myers, who in effect lead the Gould novices during each weekly session. "Amy and Cheri have been dancing with me since they were six or eight, and doing classical ballet since age ten," according to Sue Farrar. At the bar, and in the "across-the-floor" sequences, their modeling is invaluable for the beginners. Coach Taylor initially approached Farrar with the idea of making more flexible, poised cross-country skiers, and the idea was well-received by Farrar. "It's something I've always wanted to do," she said. "Dick had seen what it could do for athletes." Taylor cited the eventual stage.

The dancing stint of Pittsburgh Steelers all-pro flanker Lynn Swan, as well as direct experience with dance applications for ski jumpers and foot runners. Farrar's sons had also benefited from dance, and son Paul recruited eight of his teammates from the Telstar football team for dance lessons in 1975—the year they went on to win the state championship. It may be hard to make a direct link between the skiers' successes this coming season and their dance work, as the team has an unusually healthy volume of endurance and speed training behind it already.

Over the summer and fall, both girls and boys on the team have comfortably worked up to two and three hour roller ski sessions in hilly terrain, according to coaches. But finesse and presence over the snow—from dance and flexibility training—will be a welcome complement to this endurance backlog. Farrar is pleased with the enthusiasm of the Gould skiers. "They've taken it very seriously and have done an excellent job with it," she says. Taylor attributes this response to "Miss Sue's particular combination of discipline and joy in learning dance," which Bethel residents know well through her Children's Dance Theater productions.

The Gould team is on call to help Farrar with the roof raising of her new studio this week, which she says will happen regardless of weather conditions. "I'm hoping that by Jan. 12 we'll be in there," she said. The Gould skiers plan to continue their training with Farrar throughout the ski season.

Students shadow the real world

More than 30 Telstar Regional High School upperclassmen, under the coordination of Bethel Rotarian and former Telstar Regional High School Guidance Director Dan Hart, with assistance of Telstar English teachers Beverly Melville and Steve Vachon and Bethel Rotary Vocational Service Chair Marilyn Wyman, participated recently in either a half-day or whole-day job-shadowing experience.

Many Bethel Rotarians offered job-shadowing site opportunities, as well as Sunday River Ski Resort, Stephens Memorial Hospital, Mountain Valley High School, SAD44, the Maine State Police, Maine State Academy of Hair Design in Brunswick, Brunswick Naval Air Station, Bethel Inn & Country Club, Bethel Police Department, Bethel Area Health Center and many more employers.

Students who participated in the job-shadowing program needed parental permission and a completed job-shadow participation form filled out with the site employee or employer before being excused from school for this activity. The student then "shadowed" and reported back to their English teacher. Students participating in the job shadowing remarked how valuable the experience was in determining whether to pursue that specific career choice in their near future.

The Bethel Rotary Club and Telstar Regional High School English and Guidance Departments extend their appreciation and gratitude to those employers who provided their time and interest in opening up the eyes of high school students to their career endeavors.

Vocational Service Career Tour
The Bethel Rotary Club recently provided a building construction and architectural design tour of two area sites for eight Telstar Regional High School students. The tour was developed and led by Rotarian and architect engineer Stuart Crocker.

Part of this career awareness tour was at the new residential construction site of Mr. Crocker, on the Northwest Bethel Road. Students and several Bethel Rotarians were given an in-depth tour of the varied interior and exterior design and construction of this home, with plans to be a bed and breakfast, private counseling and architect business.

Part two was a tour of the Crescent Park Elementary School construction project. Students and Rotarians were provided a tour by the project clerk of the works Jim Reuter. Tour participants viewed how the foundation, framing, interior plumbing, wiring, wall, insulation and design were implemented as well as the beginning phases of exterior walls, siding and doors are all constructed.

Students and Rotarians ended the tour meeting in the construction site office to view the many plans/blue prints of the Crescent Park Elementary School construction project.

Participants of the Bethel Rotary Club vocational service tour were Telstar Regional High School students: Jim Dumont, Nick Chapman, Jason Koskela, Keith Chaburn, Kurt Thurston, Tim Adams and Jeff Angevine. Bethel Rotarians participating on this tour were: vocational service chair, Marilyn Wyman; vocational service members Dan Hart, Al Barth, Dick Fain, Rotary president, Nancy Harrison with tour guide and Rotary vocational service member Stuart Crocker. Plans are being made for a second follow up for these and additional Telstar Regional High School students in the spring.

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Our first Christmas Bazaar was a total success. Many thanks to all who participated in any way. Dixie Inman, Elaine Newell, and Barbara Sheard are already planning for next year. They will continue the Tuesday morning craft session at school beginning on Jan. 4. If you are at all interested, contact any of the above ladies, or just come and join the fun. Also, Tuesday, Jan. 4, will be the next regular Parent Volunteer meeting: 6:30 in the library.

The next most important upcoming date to make note of is our Christmas Concert: Monday, Dec. 20, 6:30 p.m. in the gym. All K-6 classes will participate. Come and see what Mr. Barker has put together this year.

The last day of school before vacation will be Wednesday, Dec. 22. It will be a full day of school. Classes will resume on Monday, Jan. 3.

Christmas parties will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 21, and most classes will be exchanging gifts and enjoying refreshments. On Wednesday, we will hold our annual Christmas caroling sing-a-long in the gym. Grades one through six will join together and everyone looks forward to this tradition.

I will try to limit my classroom news to one item per grade. On Dec. 22, the kindergarten children are going to Ledgewood Nursing Home to sing Christmas carols. Mrs. Loper's first-graders are reading Christmas stories and are being encouraged to bring in their own books from home. The second-graders are learning about their ancestry and family traditions. This must include family traditions. The third-graders are working with a new theme—magic. The magic of Christmas is being studied in reading. Mr. Litchfield is reading Roald Dahl's "The BFG" to his fourth-graders. My fifth-graders are memorizing Clement C. Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas" to recite at the concert. The sixth-graders are reporting in a new way. They are asking questions. What kind of art work will they be creating for decorations for the concert?

We are all excited about the recent decision to put more computers in our schools. Teachers will be trained, and have time to practice, before teaching the children. What a great way to start off the new year!

Congratulations to fifth-grader Crystal Russell and her family on the birth of a brand new sister, Stacy.

Happy Holidays from all of us.

W'stock baseball field regraded

Work at the Stuart Thurlow baseball field in Woodstock has been completed for the season.

Contractor Lepn Poland has regraded and resurfaced the field, according to Town Manager Vern Maxfield.

Voters approved improvements to the field at last year's annual Town Meeting.

The field had a 48-inch drop-off from front to back, before the regrading, Maxfield said.

The field has been leveled with just a slight grade for water run-off, he said.

Loam will be spread over the field in the spring. It will also be reseeded and the crushed rock base-path installed.

KAULBACK HONORED

Marine Staff Sgt. Spencer T. Kaulback, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurin T. Kaulback of Andover, recently received a Certificate of Recruiting Excellence.

He was cited for services at Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Portsmouth, N.H. The award was in recognition of his outstanding performance of duties, professionalism and initiative.

The 1982 graduate of Rumford High School joined the Marine Corps in June, 1982.

From the Bethel Police log:

Shelter found for homeless man; pedestrian hit on Main Street

Saturday, police arranged for a transient man to go to a shelter in Rumford. The man told police he had hitchhiked to Bethel to visit with friends, but found out they had moved. Police met up with an Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputy who took the man to Rumford.

Dec. 4, police say Robert Schusler, 57, of Bethel hit pedestrian David Murphy, 66, of Gorham, N.H. while Murphy crossed Main Street. The Bethel ambulance service transported Murphy to the Berlin, N.H. hospital, according to the report. The incident is under investigation. No charges have been filed in the case.

In other recent police news--Friday, the Evans Notch Ranger District notified police that Route 113 in Gilead had been gated off to traffic for the winter.

Thursday, police investigated the theft of two jackets from a Telstar High School student's locker.

Dec. 5, police responded to a report of juveniles fighting at Bethel Park Apartments.

Police made two recent arrests--on Dec. 2 David L. Johnson, 29, of Bryant Pond was arrested on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with a suspended driver's license.

On Dec. 2, Beth R. Arcuni, 43, of Bryant Pond was arrested on an outstanding warrant held by the Oxford County Sheriff's Office.

Managing holiday stress

Economics, family patterns and expectations--even shorter days--all combine to increase personal stress during the holidays, according to a University of Maine professor.

Richard A. Pare, associate professor of psychology and coordinator of social sciences, has suggested a number of ways to lower season stress levels.

"You're never going to eliminate stress, but you can reduce it to a tolerable level," said Pare, who has given workshops on the topic along the East Coast and has developed a 10-minute condensed version of it on a videotape.

The holidays, he said, arrive with built-in expectations about how people should feel, leaving little room for variation.

"Everybody's supposed to be happy, and if we happen not to be happy then we feel that there's something wrong with us," he said.

Family gatherings--and the pressure to get along with everybody, regardless of history--are another source of stress, as is the decrease in sunlight as the days get shorter, said Pare.

Last, but hardly least, is money, especially in the current economic climate.

"We're having all these demands on us that we want to purchase these things for somebody but we haven't got enough money," he said.

How to combat these overwhelming feelings? Pare suggests the following:

--Time management. "We've got to set a timetable for ourselves as to when we're going to do things and how we're going to accomplish it," he said.

--Preparation and acceptance that the holidays are inherently stressful and that people aren't perfect.

--Progressive relaxation. Pare suggests tensing, then relaxing, each muscle in turn, beginning with the toes and working up toward the head.

--Fluorescent lighting to combat sunlight deprivation. "It's worth the extra money on your light bill to improve your mood," said Pare.

Local students attend national business conference

By JEN HURLBERT

Future Business Leaders of America (F.B.L.A.) is a state and national organization in which high school business students may participate. Throughout the school year, these students work together to develop and refine the business skills that they have learned in their business courses.

On November 18-21, eight F.B.L.A. students and two advisers from Telstar Regional High School attended the annual National Leadership Conference in New Jersey. The students who attended were: Robin Palmer, Tina Coolidge, T.J. Stebbins, Heather Harrison, Kelly Cronin, Merideth White, Wes Richardson, and Jen Hurlbert. Advisers attending were Jane Munn and Cheryl Lord.

The National Conference was a time for F.B.L.A. members from all over the nation to get together for workshops, business tours, and social enjoyment. The conference allowed students to make new discoveries about business while making new friends and having a lot of fun.

The workshops contained helpful information that will help get business students on their way to successful careers and to "Team Up With Business."

The state of Maine chapters of F.B.L.A. arrived at the conference a little early to spend a day of fun in New York City. They spent the day touring the Hudson River and the sites of New York. Along with this tour they also visited the Statue of Liberty. Not only did the students have a lot of fun, they learned about some of the history of New York City. The trip was fun and worthwhile to all who attended.

Holiday waste reduction and recycling

The holiday season with its accompanying buying, wrapping and celebrating substantially increases the amount of solid waste we generate. However, there are many opportunities for the consumer to reduce, reuse and recycle the remnants of holiday cheer. Listed below are some tips for reducing your household's waste during the holiday season.

--Tips for Holiday Shopping: When shopping, bring your own reusable tote bag rather than accepting a separate bag for each purchase (be sure to get your sales slip so you can verify your purchases). Say "I don't need a bag" for small purchases. Ask for the box the product came in or get a clothing box for the item instead of collecting both a box and a bag. Choose products that are minimally packaged.

--Give your Christmas Tree a Second Chance: Buy an evergreen--in a pot or with a rootball wrapped in burlap--to transplant after New Year's. Dig a hole (about two feet across by one and one-half feet deep) before the ground freezes; store soil in garage or basement. To plant, remove from container (with burlap, just loosen ties; burlap will decompose on its own); replace soil so top of roots sit lightly above ground. After packing dirt around roots, mulch with three inches of hay or other evergreen branches. Check with your local nursery for specific care related to your climate conditions.

--Recycle Christmas Trees: Some communities recycle Christmas trees, chipping and mulching them for compost or landscaping materials. Trees must be free of tinsel, decorations, nails, tacks or any other foreign materials. Check with your town office to see if a tree recycling program exists in your area. Recycle tree trunks for firewood or split for kindling. Use branches as mulch under acid-loving bushes and shrubs, such as rhododendrons or evergreens.

--Separate Old Batteries: Old batteries from appliances and toys contain hazardous metals and should not be discarded with your regular household garbage. Separate these and save them for disposal during household hazardous waste collection programs. Better yet, invest in rechargeable batteries.

--Donate Old Things to Charity: New gifts will often replace appliances and clothes that still have a useful life. Collect these items and donate them to Goodwill, Salvation Army, local churches, day-care centers or charity groups. See if your town has a "bargain barn" or "swap shop."

--Recycle Cardboard and Boxes: The holiday season creates a tremendous amount of cardboard waste. Be sure to separate corrugated cardboard, bundle it and take it to your local recycling center. Check first if your local area accepts cardboard and how it should be prepared.

--Reduce, Reuse and Recycle and Gift Wrap: Don't use wrapping paper. Just add bows to holiday shopping bags or gift boxes. Only use the amount of wrap that you need. Loop string around gift boxes, then lay it out on paper to determine how much to cut. Wrap gifts in brown paper bags or newspaper. Use the cartoon section for brighter colors. Wrap gifts in festive holiday fabric, dish towels or bandanas, which can simply be washed and reused. Give gifts in baskets, tins or jars. Save bows, ribbons and paper to reuse next year. Shred wrapping paper to use as filler or instead of tissue. Buy recycled gift wrap. Write recipient's name on reusable wooden ornaments and use as a gift tag.

--Reduce, Reuse and Recycle Greeting Cards: Buy holiday greeting cards made from recycled paper or make your own. Most can be recycled with office paper. Use postcards to eliminate envelopes and excess paper. Clip holiday cards to make gift tags for next year. Jot down your favorite recipe on the back to include with a hostess gift.

--Reuse Holiday Decorations: Save your holiday decorations for reuse next year. Donate decorations to local schools, churches, town offices or non-profit organizations. Use natural ornaments such as pine cones, shells, dried flowers or berries.

--Tips for Mail-Order Shopping: Ask mail-order companies who ship your holiday gifts not to use polystyrene packing peanuts, but to use paper instead. Save bubble wrap or "peanuts" for reuse. Recycle those "peanuts" at businesses like Mail Boxes Etc. After you have completed your mail shopping, remove your name from the catalogue mailing lists by writing to: Mail Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, 11 West 42nd Street, New York, NY 10036.

--Tips for Gift Giving: Be prudent and practical as well as thoughtful and creative. Purchase gifts that are long-lasting or that can be reused and later recycled. If an item has several layers of paper and plastic packaging, choose a similar product that leaves less waste. Purchase items made of natural materials like wood rather than plastic. Better yet, choose items made from recycled materials. Second-hand or antique shops are great places to do holiday shopping. Consider giving gift certificates or tickets for services or special events, rather than purchasing an item that may not be used or needed.

--Tips for Holiday Parties: Use cloth napkins, silverware, glass drinking cups and ceramic coffee mugs, and reusable plates rather than disposable plastic. styrofoam or paper at holiday parties. Rent party furnishings rather than buying things you will only use once a year. Reuse plastic margarine tubs or yogurt containers to store holiday leftovers.

L.L. Bean X-C festival set for Feb. 5 and 6

The fourth annual L.L. Bean Cross Country Ski Festival will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 5 and 6 in Bethel. The two-day festival will offer a wide variety of cross-country skiing instruction and activities for everyone from beginner to expert. There will be lessons in classic, skating and telemark cross-country techniques, as well as ski workshops for kids and families, special expert lectures, and races. Participants without their own ski equipment are invited to use L.L. Bean equipment free of charge.

"We've designed the Cross-Country Ski Festival to offer something for everyone interested in cross-country skiing," said Mike Perry, director of L.L. Bean's Outdoor Discovery Program. "That means we'll offer everything from advanced on-snow workshops with world-renowned skiers to special activities for the kids to introduce them to the sport."

Among the top instructors and authorities on cross-country skiing taking part in the festival are: John Caldwell, former Olympic coach and author of "The Cross Country Ski Book"; Dick Hall, film maker and founder of the North American Telemark Association; Peter Graves, commentator for ESPN and cross-country ski director of Special Olympics International; Dan Simoneau, three-time U.S. Olympian and renowned instructor; Laurie Gullion, author of "Ski Games and Cross Country Primer"; Leslie Bancroft-Krichko, two-time Olympic skier and 1993 National Masters Champion and Mike Gallagher, former Olympic coach and competitor.

The L.L. Bean Cross Country Ski Festival workshop schedule offers five different workshops, each featuring both on-snow clinics and indoor talks. Introduction to Cross Country Skiing covers all the basics; Family Skiing focuses on kids and grown-ups having fun together; Intermediate Cross Country Skiing introduces advanced techniques; Backcountry Skiing is designed for the experienced skier who enjoys exploring ungroomed areas; Competitive Skiing is for advanced skiers who want to improve speed and fitness. The Cross Country Ski Potpourri option allows participants to enjoy a little of each of the workshops.

Other festival activities include: the second annual Flying Moose Classic Ski Race, a race designed for all ages and levels of skiers; a biathlon race combining skiing and marksmanship skills for which all equipment will be provided; and fun-filled ski races for the kids.

For more information on festival activities and/or to request a registration form, call L.L. Bean at 1-800-341-4341, ext. 6262 (weekdays, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.). The registration fee is $25 per day, per person (children under 14 attend free) and includes one ski workshop (on-snow clinics and indoor talks). Local food and lodging information can be obtained by calling the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at 824-2282.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

A large gathering of Post, Auxiliary and SAL squadron members assembled for the lighting of the two Christmas trees at the Locke Mills Legion Home on Thursday evening, Dec. 2.

Guests also attended from the Rumford, Norway and Richmond Posts and/or Units. President Leah Deegan opened the meeting with presentation of the flag, pledge of allegiance, a prayer and singing of "God Bless America." The group then moved outside.

At the first tree Fannie Cummings, escorted by Commander Earl Tyler, lit the tree which had been planted in her honor. At the second tree, accompanied by Martha Stowell and Leah Deegan, Olive Risko connected the cords which lighted the tree that honored the memory of her mother, Rena Howe. A prayer was then offered by Department Chaplain Heather Beasley of Richmond.

The story behind this event involves the pledge by the Unit a couple of years ago to contribute two spruce trees to the Memorial Garden which the Post had started at one end of the Legion Hall. Last spring the trees were finally planted and at the Memorial Day services they were dedicated to the two past department presidents from this Unit--Fannie Cummings (1942-43), and Rena Howe (1956-57).

Unit President Leah Deegan conceived the idea of using these as Christmas trees lit with bulbs purchased by the public, blue in memory of, red in honor of any veteran. White would be for those who had been POW or MIA. She appointed Martha Stowell and Evanna Davis as the committee to handle this. The proceeds would be used to buy the gifts which the Unit gives each year to the veterans at Ledgeview. The program has been successful beyond expectations. The gifts have been purchased and there are funds left for other veterans who may be in need at this time or for next Christmas season.

At the meeting which followed the lighting ceremony it was learned that the tickets are ready for the afghan which will benefit the Chapel of Four Chaplains, and if the Unit sells $100 worth a member will match the amount.

Funds were also voted to assist the Locke Mills Church with their Christmas baskets and to Christmas for Children.

Past District Two President Ethel LaCourse of the Norway Unit spoke about having worked at the Togus gift shop this year, and what a satisfying labor it is. For those who don't know what this program involves, gifts and money are gathered from legion, auxiliary and other patriotic organizations and assembled for display similar to a store. The patients at Togus who are able are brought to the display area and select gifts for their family members. Large carts are brought to the wards so that all other patients can select gifts for their families. Their selections are then gift-wrapped, tagged, wrapped for shipping, and mailed. There is no cost to the veteran patient, all gifts and labor being furnished by volunteers.

Members are reminded that the next meeting is Dec. 16 when they are urged to bring family members and a potluck dish to share for the 6 p.m. supper. A gift exchange will follow.

Please inform Leah Deegan of the names and ages of children who will be attending. There will be games with prizes for all and a chance to sing-along.

The dinner with veterans at Ledgeview Memorial Home will be at noon on Dec. 19.

Mr. & Mrs. Wayne Wardwell

Jayne Ann Tabb and Wayne Richard Wardwell of Lewiston were united in marriage at the Anover Congregational Church on Sept. 18 with a double-ring service. Pastor Jane C. Rich officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster F. Tabb of Andover and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wardwell of Andover.

The bride wore a gown of white satin featuring an open sweetheart neckline and long puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice was enhanced with seed pearls and sequins over silk floss motifs. The full train was accented with lace and was bustled in the back for the reception. For her headpiece she chose a band of silk flowers with an attached veil of illusion trimmed in pearls. She carried a fresh flower bouquet of orchids and star gazer lilies with cascading ivy and pearls. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

The maid of honor was Allyson Belanger, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Missy Goodine, Miss Heidi Belanger Goodine and Miss Patti Jaros Goodine, all friends of the bride. The flower girl was Meghan Wardwell, the groom's niece.

The best man was Jeff Wardwell, brother of the groom. Ushers were Grady Littlehale, friend of the groom, Scott Tabb, brother of the bride, and Eric Wardwell, brother of the groom. Ring bearers were Andy Wardwell and Travis Wardwell, nephews of the groom.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Telstar Regional High School and a 1989 graduate of New Vocational Technical College with a degree in management. She is currently employed at Sun-Journal of Lewiston.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Winnabett High School, Hampton, N.H. He is currently employed at Federal Distributors. The couple are residing in Lewiston.

My Mom, Lina

She worked all day from morn till night,
She had to, you know to make things alright.

She was suddenly left alone with two small children to call her own ~

She had enough love to go all around
She was a strong woman until sickness got her down.

I take care of her now
She's my best friend, you see ~
I'll always need her for she was both
Mother and Father to me.

Your daughter & Friend
